SUMMARY OF CROPS.

The rainfall of October supplied moisture for winter wheat and placed the soil in excellent condition for fall plowing. The mild, open weather furnished the best of conditions for harvesting of potatoes and sugar beets. Corn harvest was almost completed during the month just past, and although Utah's acreage is not large, the yield per acre was very satisfactory. The dry land corn in the southwestern part of the state yielded particularly well. Much more of the Utah corn crop went into silos this year than ever before. This method of utilizing corn forage to feed live stock, as a substitute for alfalfa, is growing in popularity. Some localities have doubled their number of silos in the past year.

Due to higher prices for potatoes than have prevailed in recent years, some have been led to assume that the Utah crop is short. On the contrary the present crop is the best that Utah has produced in recent years both as to yield and quality. There is a very considerable shortage in the potato crop in the United States, however, which is the controlling factor in prices. A study of the accompanying estimates will show that the level of prices obtaining in Utah is not inconsistent with those of the nation at large.

Sugar beet harvest progressed rapidly during the latter part of October, the weather conditions being almost ideal for outdoor work of that sort. A larger per cent of the beet acreage planted last spring was abandoned than in usual years. The acreage actually to be harvested is up to that of a year ago.

THE WEATHER SUMMARY.

The rainfall during October was the heaviest for that month on record, averaging for the state as a whole 4.21 inches or 2.97 inches above normal. Nearly all stations with ten years or more record reported monthly amounts above normal. The temperature averaged slightly below normal, and most stations reported minimum temperatures sometime during the month below freezing, the lowest being eleven degrees at Kelton on the 20th. The highest temperature was eighty-four degrees at St. George. Threshing was still on during October, but was finished at the end of the month. The abundant rains placed the ground in excellent condition for plowing and much seeding was done.

UINTAH BASIN LINE LIKELY TO BE DROPPED

SALT LAKE ROUTE SUDDENLY TROUBLED WITH COLD FEET.

Now Up in the Denver and Rio Grande System to Go In There By Way of Soldier Summit—Survey and Shipments In Sight Does Not Impress Men Behind the San Pedro Survey.

"The Salt Lake Route will not build a line into the Uintah Basin unless the final report of the engineers in charge of the work show that a branch line into that section of the state would be a paying proposition," says H. C. Nutt, general manager, who was in Utah this week.

Reports which have been turned in by the engineers in charge of the survey work, it is said, were not satisfactory and there was much doubt in the minds of those in control of the road as to the probability of constructing a line into the Basin. Nutt declares that the traffic in and out of the Basin is not sufficient to pay the operating expenses and the investment upon the capital required for the building of the branch line.

"The road into the Uintah Basin from Provo," says Nutt, "would cost more than five million dollars and the returns would not pay the operating expenses." Nutt says that the final decision whether the line would be built or not rests with the board of directors of the road, but that on the face of engineers' reports he judges that the road will not be built.

IS FIGHTING ON THE EMERY BRANCH LINE OUT OF PRICE

Both the Union Pacific system and the Denver and Rio Grande will be gin the construction of new work next summer and it is thought by officers of the two roads that a great amount of tracklaying will be started. On account of the scarcity of labor throughout the intermountain country both roads have been handicapped in the work which they have undertaken recently.

In contemplation is the building of the Emery county branch of the Denver and Rio Grande out of Price, which will open a large tract of land devoted to the growing of sugar beets and a new coal mining territory which will place more Utah coal on the market. It is thought by officers of the railroad that the surveying of the proposed line will start within a few days.

QUITE ANOTHER THING.

To whom are you going to give those cigars?

To the janitor, so that he will give more heat.

Why, I thought I heard you abusing him terribly this morning.

Not much—wouldn't think of addressing the janitor like that. I was talking to the landlord.

PLACED IN PADDED CELL

Man On His Way to Prison From Idaho Goes "Bughouse."

Evidently laboring under the strain of intoxication or mental affliction, young James E. Murray of Buhl, Ida., was placed in the padded cell of the county jail at Ogden last Friday. When searched at the sheriff's office Murray had in his possession two tickets from Buhl to Price, sixty-five dollars in cash and a half pint of Idaho whisky.

After his arrest a woman was found waiting at the union depot for the young man's return. Murray insists on purchasing a downtown cafe and his condition was more alarming when he fell in a stupor at the sheriff's office.

It is the opinion of the officers that someone saw Murray's roll of money and drugged him. Inquiry locally by The Sun fails to throw any light on the man held at Ogden.

GRAIN STANDARD ACT

Tentative Draft of Resolutions Are Soon to Be Published.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—Before the adoption by the United States department of agriculture of the regulations to enforce the United States grain standards act a tentative draft of the regulations will be published and distributed and a public hearing or hearings will be held at which all interested persons may present their views. The tentative draft is now being prepared by a committee of the department of agriculture following meetings with seven representatives of the various branches of the grain industry who were invited by the secretary of agriculture to participate in the preliminary discussions in regard to the regulations.

PALOMA MAKES ASSESSMENT; VERY RICH ORE IN SIGHT

Directors of the Paloma Mining company have levied an assessment of one and a half cents a share. M. P. Bruffet, manager, says that the object is to pay off a pressing indebtedness and to provide an operating fund. The amount to be levied is seventy-five hundred dollars. He says this will cover and provide a sufficient fund to maintain the payroll up to April. Before that he expects to show just how good a property the Paloma is, as he declares that it is certainly the making of a mine. Samples of ore were received recently from C. J. Graff, superintendent at the property. They came from the six hundred-foot level and Bruffet considers them indicative of what will be struck in quantity shortly.

FIRST WOMAN TO SIT IN HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MISSOULA, Mont., Nov. 11.—Messages of congratulation from suffrage leaders in many parts of the country poured into Missoula today for Miss Jeannette Rankin, republican, the first woman to be elected to congress. Miss Rankin's campaign managers contended that she had been successful by at least two thousand majority.

"I felt that the women would stand by me," Miss Rankin says. "It is wonderful to me to think of having the opportunity of being the first woman to sit in congress with four hundred and thirty-four men."

Miss Rankin is small and slight. She is a graduate of the University of Montana and the School of Philanthropy of New York City.
